TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES.

A Prisoner at Tacoma Assaults His Wife and Suicides.

The Anarchists' Doom—Several of them to be Amnestied.

THE ANARCHISTS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The hearing is in progress at Springfield. Governor Oglesby is said to be much impressed with the argument of counsel for the prisoners. The feeling exists that two and perhaps three will surely receive a commutation of their sentences. All is quiet in Chicago.

SUICIDE AT TACOMA.

TACOMA, Nov. 9.—The Mexico arrived here at 9 o'clock.

Wm. F. Kleinschmidt committed suicided while visiting his wife in charge of the deputy jailor to-day. He was a prisoner awaiting trial on a charge of shooting with intent to kill on Aug. 20th. He was allowed to visit his wife occasionally, and this afternoon went into his own room and seizing a razor attacked his wife, cutting her several times across the face and throat, and then cut his own throat from ear to ear, dying immediately. He formally lived in San Francisco and was fifty years of age. He was a fellow prisoner with a man who also committed suicide on Oct. 27th and occupied the same cell in the jail. It is supposed they discussed plans of suicide together.

ON THE WING.

Movements of People We Know and have Read of.

The Rev. J. T. Thompson, Vancouver, is in the city.

Mr. G. E. Corbould, Westminster, was a passenger from the mainland last night.

Mrs. Reyland and family have arrived from Nanaimo on a visit to Dr. Macnaughton Jones.

Mr. Baillie-Grohrman is in the city. Mr. and Mrs. Grohman have leased the residence of Mr. Thos. Tye, Douglas street, where they will reside for the winter.

Ald. D. Oppenheimer, of Vancouver, is in the city to-day. He is now chairman of the Board of Trade as well as chairman of Finance in the City Council. His hands are full of business.

The Mexico's Freight.

The Mexico, which arrived here on Monday, carried merchandise for eastern points, via the Canadian Pacific, as follows:

| To— | Values |
| Boston | $44,533 |
| New York | 12,900 |
| Chicago | 7,622 |
| St. Louis | 3,800 |
| Albany, N. Y. | 1,150 |
| La Crosse, Wis. | 900 |
| Winnipeg | 1,300 |
| Total Eastern | $71,716 |
| British Columbia | 7,120 |
| Grand Total | $78,836 |

The shipments to eastern points were as follows: To Boston—94,617 lbs wool, 26,900 lbs beans. To New York—22,560 lbs wool. To Chicago—22,175 lbs coffee, 90,541 lbs beans, 80 pkgs rattan. To St. Louis—15,092 lbs beans. To Albany—80 bbls salmon. To La Crosse—22,677 lbs beans. To Winnipeg—300 cs canned fruit. The shipments to British Columbia included 2,022 lbs coffee, 4,022 lbs bacon and hams, 13 cs canned goods, 200 cs canned and 200 lbs dried fruit, 6 cs and 765 galls wine, 4,057 lbs beans, 126 bxs raisins, 893 galls palm oil, 100 lbs butter, 8,225 lbs malt, 100 lbs tobacco, 200 lbs honey, 16 cs rubber goods, 2 rls leather, 8 cs arms and ammunition, 210 kgs nails.

The Shad Coming.

Mr. Thos. Mowat, inspector of fisheries, has received two young shad caught off Race Rocks, and will preserve them. The shad are exotics from the Pacific, and in 1876 were first transplanted (250,000 of them) from the Delaware to the Sacramento river. The Columbian says that last year 10,000 000 lbs of shad were marketed at San Francisco, valued at $1,000,000, or more than the fisheries of the Fraser river net. They have been working their way northwards for a number of years, last year they were caught in the Columbia river, and this summer they have reached British Columbia waters, but in very limited numbers. Mr. Mowat is in communication with the government at present for the purpose of gaining permission to secure a large number of shad eggs, and, after hatching them, to place the young fry in the Fraser. The demand for shad in San Francisco always exceeds the demand.

let that cold of yours run on. You think it is a light thing. But it may run into catarrh. Or into pneumonia. Or consumption.

Catarrh is disgusting. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself.

The breathing apparatus must be kept healthy and clear of all obstructions and offensive matter. Otherwise there is trouble ahead.

All the diseases of these parts, head, nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, can be delightfully and entirely cured by the use of Boschee's German Syrup. If you don't know this already, thousands and thousands of people can tell you. They have been cured by it, and "know how it is themselves." Bottle only 75 cents. Ask any druggist.

Comox.

A resident of Denman Island informed us that interest in the election is increasing, and the probability was that before nomination day three or four candidates will be in the field. Among those whose names are mentioned is Mr. Joseph McPhee. The contest will be between Messrs. Humphreys and Dingwall, with the chances greatly in favor of the former.

The Parthia

Will leave Vancouver to-morrow morning, and the outer wharf some time between the hours of 2 and 4 p. m. From this city 150 Chinese will go on board. She will carry away a full cargo and her utmost complement of passengers.

WRONG AND UNCHARITABLE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

Board of School Trustees.

A meeting of the School Board was held last night in the City Hall. Present, Trustees Hayward, chairman, W. Walker, secretary, Dr. Milne and Heisterman.

After routine business, a letter was read from Mr. Fraser offering to paint the black boards at 5c per square foot. Referred to Superintendent of Education.

A discussion arose on the proposal to dig a well for the Spring Ridge School. There is a scarcity of water there. Dr. Milne, from a sanitary point of view, objected to a well being dug near the school house or the water closets. The ground was porous, and the water would be certain to become polluted. Finally it was resolved to ask the City Council to supply water, as the mains now were only 250 feet distant.

A letter was read from Mr. J. A. Halliday, principal of the central school, relative to repairs. Referred.

The secretary referred to the letters published by Mr. Muir, late principal of the High School. It was held by some of the trustees that no notice should have been taken of them.

Dr. Milne thought Mr. Muir's whole policy was to raise a feeling of hostility between the Board and the teachers. In regard to the address given Mr. Muir by the teachers, he thought it was a matter of courtesy, not that they justified his conduct, but as a means of helping him along. It was the usual custom and no disrespect was intended to the Board by either teachers or the scholars. Mr. Muir's motive was to bring the whole school system into ridicule. His conduct was cowardly and he could not endorse his letters to the city papers. He knew that the conduct of the Board received the endorsement of the Educational office. Mr. Muir had also endeavored to create a breach between the Trustees and the Department of Education. In conclusion he moved that all correspondence be filed.

Trustee Heisterman in seconding the resolution, condemned Mr. Muir's action. His letters were full of misstatements. He should be taken no notice of.

Chairman Hayward stated that he was sorry now that Mr. Muir had been one of the teachers again appointed last summer. All the staff were then considered as applicants.

Trustee Heisterman considered Mr. Muir a failure as a teacher. He was no good and should not have been appointed.

Secretary Walker was instructed to communicate with Mr. Andrew McCulloch, M. A., Ingersoll, Ont., offering him the appointment of Principal of the High School, his duties to begin at New Year. Salary $1320. Mr. Sutherland, of Bond Head, the Board's first choice, found it impossible to accept the position at present.

Mr. Offerhaus will have charge of the entire school for the present. There had been no less than 49 applicants for the position of Principal for the High School.

The average attendance for October was 966, equal to 46 pupils for each of the 21 teachers in the several schools of the city.

Ye Olden Tyme Concert.

The above concert came off last evening in Temperance hall, Pandora street, and was listened to by a bumper house. The first piece on the programme was "Auld Lang Syne," sung by the entire company of ye olde folks. Mr. Hastie then gave a reading, "Reclaimed," which was well rendered; next was a song by Mr. Graham, "When You and I Were Youngo, Maggie," and was followed by Miss and the Masters North giving a trio on the cornet, violin and piano. Being masters of this difficult selection, they were recalled amid loud applause. The hunting song was passed over, as the gentleman had found it impossible to attend. Mr. Tucker of H. M. S. Triumph now made his appearance as Neptune and recited the "Mermaid," which was considered a goode effort by ye audience, his costume being perfect. A quartette entitled "Home, Sweet Home," by Miss Herd and Miss Gibbs, Messrs. Hastie and Losee, brought the first part to a close. During intermission ye olde folkes made many new acquaintances, and supplied those who desired them with refreshments.

The second part opened with a quartette, "The Old Oaken Bucket," by Miss Gibbs, Miss Probert and Messrs. King and Mable, and was well rendered, the chorus being taken up by the audience. Next was a dialogue by Miss Bunting, Mr. D. Kerr and Master Jewell, a scene at a railway depot, which was full of mirth from beginning to end. Miss Bunting displayed unequalled amateur talent throughout the piece, as did also the gentlemen. Miss Gibbs sang "The Gypsy's Warning." Miss Hyams taking the warning with a ladylike disdain. On being recalled, "I Cannot Sing the Old Songs" was given in good voice as encore. Mr. Kerr recited the "Flying Machine" in an able manner, and on being recalled gave "Dot Blue Hen's Shickens," which provoked much laughter. A duett by Miss Probert and Mr. Kinnaird, entitled "Matrimonial Jars," was sung in splendid style, receiving an enthusiastic encore, to which they responded by singing "Ruben and Rachel," which also provoked a recall, and was acceded to by singing "Sour Grapes." Mr. Tucker again appeared, giving "Objections to Good Templars," which was an able effort, and attended with success. The evening's entertainment closed with the National Anthem being sung, and thus closed an exceedingly pleasant evening. The costumes were in keeping with the 15th and 16th centuries, and gave the young "idea" what glorious times of display they must have been. Limit of space will not permit of our making personal mention of these.

Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever is cured in from one to three simple applications made at home. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of stamp, by A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King street West, Toronto, Canada.—Christian Standard.

—A physician living on the seaboard thus writes: "Within the last five years, in a district embracing 60 square miles or so by the sea, I have noted the hour and the minute of no less than 93 demises in my own immediate practice, and every soul of them has gone out with the tide, save four who died suddenly by fatal accident."

RECIPROCAL TRADE OR COMMERCIAL UNION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—The question of reciprocal trade between Canada and the United States just now occupies a large share of public attention in every province of the Dominion, British Columbia, I believe, alone excepted. Likewise in the United States it appears to be growing in importance, and gives promise of becoming ere long a foremost issue in the councils of that nation. The occasion which has given rise to this question of reciprocal trade is that known as the fisheries dispute, which has more than once threatened to involve Britain and America in war, but is now about to be settled by peaceful diplomacy, if insuperable obstacles be not thrown in the way of an adjustment of the difficulty by the unwise acts of selfish politicians.

The representative men of the various provinces who took a leading part in bringing about the scheme of Confederation, which culminated in the existing Dominion of Canada, fondly hoped that the result would be the development of a wider and deeper national sentiment on the part of the people composing the then scattered, weak and disunited provinces, and that under a federal system of government, as nearly similar to that of the United States as existing circumstances, and our relations as an integral part of the empire of Great Britain, would permit, an inter-provincial trade would be opened up greatly to the advantage of all parties concerned. The patriotic dream, however, of the fathers of Confederation, has already, after an experience of only about two decades, been somewhat rudely dispelled.

The union has not so far been a happy one, either politically, financially, commercially or industrially. No doubt extreme partyism has had much to do in promoting and keeping alive a spirit of factious discord, the tendency of which has been in the direction of political disintegration instead of uniting the provinces in the bonds of an indissoluble whole having common interests and all mutually aspiring to the ultimate development of a grand Canadian nationality. But not to faction alone is to be attributed the existing unhappy relations of the provinces toward the Federal Government. Experience has demonstrated that there exists no real bond of sympathy between the provinces, for the reason that that community of interests essential to political progress and harmony is wanting. The legislation best adapted to promote the welfare of the eastern maritime provinces is not what is best suited to the requirements of Quebec or Ontario. Nor are the political necessities of Manitoba such as would promote the highest interests of British Columbia. The effect to the Federal Government has been one of great perplexity, and in the vain effort to satisfy all parties it has succeeded in pleasing none.

The jug-handled policy of the Mackenzie administration, in the direction of free trade, by which Canada became the slaughter market for the disposal of the surplus manufactures of the United States, all but annihilated the local industries of the Dominion and led to such a revulsion in public sentiment on the part of the Canadian people as to cause the overthrow of the Liberal party, the restoration of the Conservatives to office, and the inauguration of what is known as the "National Policy," or, as it might be better described, a policy of non-commercial intercourse with the United States, or any other country for that matter, so far as it was possible to give effect to a scheme so unnatural in its operations and fallacious in its results.

The people of Canada are just waking up to the fact that the so-called National Policy of the Macdonald Government is, at least, but a very expensive delusion, and not the panacea for commercial declension and industrial retrogression, its friends declared it would be. The country as a whole has not prospered under it, those engaged in agricultural pursuits being the chief sufferers. While the products of the soil have year by year decreased in value, articles of domestic manufacture, especially such as the farmer requires in the daily pursuit of his calling, have gone up in price to such an extent as to make it a matter of grave doubt, in the face of most pinching economy, whether at the close of each succeeding year he can make ends meet. And this the farmer contends is the fruit of the National Policy.

A system the tendency of which is to make rich men richer and poor men poorer, is not what this young Dominion just now stands in need of. Instead of commercial and manufacturing monopolies, with high tariffs and expensive living, the fact is being impressed upon the public mind that a larger measure of freedom in trade and less of the Chinese "shut in" policy than has hitherto prevailed, would better suit the requirements of the Canadian people and tend more effectually to the increase of our trade, the development of our varied latent resources, promote a wider feeling of unity than now exists between the provinces, give birth to a stronger national sentiment, and draw more closely than ever the ties which bind the Canadian people to the British throne, and which constitutes the Dominion of Canada an integral portion of the mightiest empire on earth.

A very hopeful feature in the discussion of the question of a Commercial Union with the United States is that it is not confined exclusively to the Canadian side of the line. The Americans are also ventillating the subject, and in a tone of earnest candor which bids fair to result in substantial action in due course. As on the occasion of the discussion of a treaty of reciprocity between Canada and the United States, in 1854, there were people who prophesied that the adoption of such a treaty would inevitably lead to the annexation of this country to the wide domain of Uncle Sam. There are now living certain of the same school of prophets who pretend to foresee in a Commercial Union the inauguration of a policy which will most surely culminate in the absorption of Canada into the United States, and, so far as the Dominion is concerned, to the dismemberment of the British Empire. Were the prognostications of the prophets of 1854 verified? Did not Canada prosper under the first treaty as she never prospered before? And did the success of that enterprise tend to the relaxation of the ties which bound the Canadian people to the throne of Britain; or did it not rather intensify their loyalty and make them more and more British? The logic of figures and facts affirm that it did. That the proposed measure of a Commercial Union between the two countries will result in like advantage to Canada, may be accepted as a foregone conclusion.

Have not we, British Columbians, a vital interest in the adoption of the proposed treaty? With free and unlimited commercial intercourse with the adjacent States of Washington, Oregon, and California, what a field would be opened up for the development of our coal, lumber, fishing and other interests, and likewise for the investment of capital in these and other enterprises of a local character, that would give employment to thousands of laboring men; infuse life and energy in many localities where the stillness of death now reigns, and give a stimulus to every department of trade and industry, which are so very essential to the growth and prosperity of our towns and cities, and that gives promise of better times to every man in the country, in any manner identified with its agricultural interests. But having already trespassed far enough on your space, I shall here close, and with your permission will again advert to the subject in a future issue.

Victoria, Nov. 8, 1887. M.

NOTE.—Our columns are open for the discussion of this and kindred topics. We shall be pleased to hear from M. at an early date.

ROCK CREEK.

A Very Rich Quartz District—Developments Going On.

Mr. Frank Hale arrived from Rock Creek this morning, having left that mining camp on Tuesday the 1st inst. He came out by way of Spokane Falls and switch-back to Tacoma. Mr. Hale was one of the pioneers at Rock Creek, and has made seven or eight locations. He reports the Cariboo ledge as developed for a mile and a half with shafts from 20 to 70 feet, each location having from one to three shafts. Mr. Douglas, at 35 feet had found free milling ore, the supposed having disappeared. The Amelia is showing up better than ever at 75 feet, the vein being 8 feet wide. Assays gave over $200 to the ton. A cross-lead running into the main lode, has been opened up and rich silver-bearing rock discovered. An offer has been made to the owners of the Cariboo, adjoining the Alice and Emma property, by Dennis Ryan, to put in machinery to treat the ore, to the value of $65,000 and $10,000 cash, for a half interest. The offer, however, has been refused. The Bouncer claim, the last location on the main lead, shows free gold and sulphates. All the miners are enthusiastic about their discoveries and feel convinced that a marvellous rich district has been located. The placer miners, working about seven miles below, have been very successful.

The people of Spokane Falls have contributed $4,000 to extend the road to the boundary line, about 25 miles, and the contract is now let. From the line to Rock Creek there is almost a natural road, and the probability is that most of the trade will go that way.

The following extracts are made from a letter received by Mr. Milton McLean of this city from a friend in the Rock Creek territory: The Eureka shaft is now down 40 feet in a vein 5½ feet wide, all quartz; carrying sulphurets in great quantity, with some galena now coming in, which I am pleased to see as lime underlies the slate foundation. As we get deeper and nearer the lime, the galena is likely to be more plentiful. Hence will have lead, iron and lime and will be able to run a smelter on the ground. Have my building in good shape for winter and a good stock of vegetables in the root house.

We have no mail facilities whatever excepting what we supply ourselves by having a carrier to and from Marcus, a small trading post in Eastern Washington territory. This is a matter requiring the attention of the postoffice inspector in British Columbia. I hope Mr. Fletcher will see to it, and that shortly. With the opening of the new year I am told the United States Government will establish an office with a weekly mail to Osooyos Lake, 12 miles from here, which will be a great boon to our camp. The Dominion Government is most neglectful in mail facilities, and in retarding the progress of the country. In the U. S. it is understood that the mail is necessary to open mining camps, and postoffices are established as soon as mines are discovered. Hence a great benefit is conferred on merchants and all classes transacting business.

The prospects for a brisk season next year are extremely encouraging. There is no mistaking the fact that gold exists in this region and in paying quantities. Don't be surprised if you hear of as great a rush to Rock Creek as ever allured the enthusiastic miners to Cariboo and many of the richest camps in California.

The various camps in the district are still working, but will shortly have to be laid over for the winter. J. D.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Edwin Johnson, Q. C. S. M.)

T. Riley was charged with stealing five twenty-dollar gold pieces and a gold watch and chain from a man named Abbott. Special officer Stewart deposed that he arrested the accused last night, and found eighty dollars in gold and a ten dollar bill on his person. A gold watch and chain was also found on the prisoner. Riley slept in the same room with Abbott in the St. Nicholas Hotel. The prisoner does not reside in this city. When defendant was arrested he said, "It is all right, the old man gave me one hundred dollars."

Supt. Bloomfield asked for a remand until to-morrow.

Riley—Your Honor, I am innocent of the charge and cannot see why I am remanded. The old man gave me one hundred dollars.

His Honor remanded the prisoner.

Justice Robb charged by officer Robb with stealing wood valued at 25 cents, the property of Mr. Thos. Gowan. The officer stated that he saw the prisoner last night carrying some cord wood which he threw down when he met the witness. Defendant told the officer that the wood was purchased from a Chinaman. Justice could not find the party who supplied him with the wood.

Mr. Gowan was called, but could not swear that the wood was his property, although he had a large quantity in the neighborhood. The defendant was dismissed.

GLADSTONE'S LATE "WHIP."

The sudden death, at Brighton, is announced of Lord Wolverton, who was better known as Mr. Glyn, of the great banking house of Glyn, Mills, Currie & Co., London, and still better known as one of the best "whips" Mr. Gladstone ever had in the House of Commons, where he sat from 1857 to 1873 as member for the cathedral city of Salisbury. It was often a subject of wonder that a great, rich, powerful banker, heir to a seat in the House of Lords, should consent to go through for many years the drudgery attached to the office of chief "whip." He once stated that he had never been absent during one session for a single division in the House of Commons, whatever the question might be that was being divided on, and that in one session he had taken part in no fewer than 440 divisions. That meant that from the meeting of the House at 4 o'clock he never left it for sometimes ten, sometimes twelve hours at a sitting. On being asked why he sacrified so much to the Liberal party, he was wont to reply that personal attachment to Gladstone was with him a very strong incentive to work in the Liberal interest. On the other hand, Lord Wolverton was always consulted by Mr. Gladstone on all questions of policy, and so the declaration of Lord Wolverton the other day in favor of the disestablishment of the Episcopal and Presbyterian churches, was regarded in England with the greatest interest. One of Lord Wolverton's last acts after his declaration about disestablishment was to give a great Liberal picnic in his county, which cost him personally no less a sum than $20,000. As "whip" Mr. Glyn seldom spoke in the House, and as Lord Wolverton he has seldom troubled the House of Lords; but still his influence on Liberal policy has been very great, very successful, and very important.

PATRIOT AND TRAITOR.

It is really amusing to read some of the articles on the opposition leader in the organ of the government. Hon. Mr. Beaven is in turn maligned, reviled, laughed at, complimented, extolled and fawned upon as the humor played upon the feelings of the writer, who like Uriah Heep can assume the role of a bully or play the part of a toady as circumstances appear to warrant. The old trick of drawing a red-herring across the scent, to divert attention from the conspiracies of a certain member of the government, and to keep, if possible, the process of dissolution now in progress in the government ranks a profound secret, is too transparent to mislead the readers of that journal. Hon. J. H. Turner was charged with conspiring with Mr. W. Duncan and the American people to depopulate British Columbia. Not only was he accused of this crime, but the charge was sustained by the production of the treasonable letter given to Mr. Duncan, wherein the American people were implored to afford an asylum from grievous wrongs to the unfortunate Metlakathlans. Mr. J. H. Turner, Minister of Finance in a government supported by the editor of the Colonist, and Mr. J. W. Macdonald, a Senator of the Dominion, stand self-convicted traitors to British Columbia. Now, what has the Colonist said in defence of this terrible accusation? Not one word! Whatever Mr. Higgins may think privately, he has not made any reference to the subject in the columns of the Colonist. The question has been studiously ignored—left severely alone. Turner has not been commended—Macdonald has not been condemned! The very facts of the case—the infamous letter—have not been published in the Colonist, and the subscribers to that newspaper (!) who read no other are still in ignorance of the fact that two trusted servants of the people have been intriguing against them and against the "crown and dignity of Her Majesty." Possibly no single act of a public man has created such wide-spread consternation, or met with such universal condemnation, as did Turner's treasonable letter. Something had to be done to change the current of public opinion, but as it was impossible to explain away the scandalous conduct of the local minister the thin dodge of treat'ng Hon. Mr. Beaven, The Times, and the opposition generally, to daily doses of twaddle has been resorted to. The people are not concerned to know about the leader of the opposition so much as they are to have the conduct of officials criticised. Mr. Beaven is not in office; Mr. Turner is a sworn minister of the crown. No charge has been brought against the former; the latter is shown to have conspired to assist in destroying the province that still continues to honor and enrich him. The one is a Canadian proud of his country; the other is an Englishman who thinks the laws of a British province (which he as a member of the cabinet is personally responsible for) are so oppressive and unalterable that he advises a whole community to emigrate to a foreign country. Mr. Beaven has a standing of many years as a politician and a member of the government, and has passed through with an honorable record; Mr. Turner has just entered political life and the first signature affixed by his prentice hand was to a document that will blast his reputation for all time to come. The two gentlemen are not comparable. The one loves his country, the other hates it. No amount of silly sarcasm will blind the people to the virtues and abilities of the one or keep them in ignorance of the betrayal of country, which is the only public act of the other.

SENATOR JOHN McDONALD.

The rumor put into circulation shortly after the death of the late Hon. William McMaster that the vacancy his demise had created in the Senate would be filled by appointing Mr. John McDonald, Toronto's dry goods merchant prince, has been confirmed, that gentleman having been called to the upper chamber this week. The selection of so pronounced a Liberal as the new Senator has been throughout his eventful life, is not a matter of much surprise. His predecessor in the Senate was long recognized as the leading dry goods merchant in the west. When he retired from mercantile life to manage the affairs of the Canadian Bank of Commerce Mr. John McDonald by degrees forged ahead until he had attained the top wrung of the ladder of commercial supremacy. Senator McMaster represented the commercial interests of the Queen City in the Senate; it was but natural and quite in keeping with the well understood wishes of the people of Toronto that his successor should be the Queen City's foremost merchant.

Senator John McDonald is a native of the Parish of Scone, Perthshire, Scotland. At an early age he entered a draper's shop in George's Street, Perth, as a parcel delivery boy. In all the sports indulged in by the youth of the "fair city" within the two Inches, none could outstrip young Johnnie McDonald. In foot ball, golf, and all the athletic sports indulged in on the unrivalled Inches of Perth, beside the winding Tay, the future merchant prince's motto was to be "first in everything." Leaving the village of his nativity—a place rendered famous in history in consequence of its being the seat for crowning Scotia's kings and queens in the early centuries, (the chair in which the crowing act was performed is now in Westminster abbey) young McDonald went south, finally crossed the Atlantic and settled in Toronto, where he has been in business for many years. Success has attended his every effort. He always was a hard worker, giving his business close attention even to its minutest detail. Early and late he was to be found in his counting room. Twice every day he inspected his vast warehouse from cellar to attic. His employes he knew by name, and to each he always had a kindly word to express as he passed them by. It is not many years since he put travelers on the road. His trade was always an extensive one; but the opening up of new territories and avenues of trade compelled him to change a cherished principle, that of not having a drummer in his employ. Now he has the best and most reliable men on the road which money can secure. His house is famed for its uprightness and probity. It is rarely that oppressive measures are adopted by John McDonald to crush a man out of business. He is lenient to a degree, so long as he finds a customer to be honest and persevering.

Some thirty years ago, when Toronto was a much smaller place than she is to-day, a number of her young men became devotedly attached to the Wesleyan Church. Amongst that number was the newly appointed Senator. There were others whose names for many years were equally as prominent as that of Mr. John McDonald. Remarkable as it may seem a very large percentage of this set lived honorable, upright lives and died wealthy, honored by all classes, and their end universally lamented. Senator John McDonald is a generous donator to his church and its missions. It is a fact that of the yearly profits a considerable percentage is set aside for religious and charitable purposes. In this respect, next to Sir Donald A. Smith, he is the greatest of Canada's benefactors, esteemed and beloved by all men irrespective of religious belief, political bias or nationality.

He is not a new man by any means in political harness. He was elected at a bye election, for Centre Toronto, in 1875, succeeding the late Mr. Robert Wilkes who had been unseated for bribery. In 1878 he again offered himself, but being hostile to the National Policy was defeated by Mr. Robert Hay—once a strong Liberal, but now a convert to the protection theory, by close upon 500 majority. While in the House Mr. McDonald's utterances on trade questions of the day were well considered and always commanded the attention of the chamber. He was a vigorous opponent of the National Policy; his theory being a revenue for revenue purposes only. He is still hostile to the fiscal policy of the country, as well as an avowed opponent of the new panacea for our political ailments—Commercial Union. He is still a young man comparatively, scarcely 60 years of age. Ripe in judgment and sound in his constitution it is to be hoped he has a long life of usefulness before him. In his new field of labor he will find much to reform, and thus be enabled the better to carry into execution the cherished principles of a lifetime. Whilst in the Commons he was an enthusiastic admirer and follower of the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie for whom, as a fellow-countryman, coming from the same shire, within fifteen miles of each other, he entertained the highest admiration.

In nomenclature the Macs lead all others, there being no fewer than a full dozen in the Senate, namely Senators McCallum, McClelan, McDonald W. J., McInnes T. R., McKay, McKindsey, McDonald John, McMillan, McDonald William, McFarlane, Macinnes Donald, McPherson Sir David.

WORLD OF LONDON.

An Interesting Budget of News From Over the Seas.

The Prince of Wales--Russia and Siberia--Exhibitions, &c.

[From our own Correspondent.]

London, Oct. 20.—Sir Phillip Cunliffe Owen is going as British Commissioner to the Melbourne Exhibition. It is understood that he will replace Sir Herbert Sandford, the present Commissioner who wishes to come home.

It is said that the Prince of Wales is in very good spirits over the fortunes of the Imperial Institute. Contributions are flowing in from India, where renewed interest in the matter has been kindled by the visit of a large number of Hindoo Princes during the Jubilee.

Russia and Siberia are witnessing all the phenomena of a second spring and the lilacs are all in flower again. In Paris, the chestnut trees have bloomed once more in the Tuileries gardens. This is rather different from the gloomy ungenial October weather we have been having in London, and one can only remark that the exiles of the far north-east have climatic compensations unknown to the free-born Briton!

Several members of the British Peerage have recently been distinguishing themselves. One is in America—the butt of satirists, and a source of amusement to the least scrupulous; another has been drummed even out of the Turf Club; another is likely to figure in the trial of Mrs. Jeffries; and another is making himself notorious by encouraging encounters between prize fighters.

Among the exhibits at the Glasgow Exhibition next year there will be a representative show of Irish needlework, knitting, stocking making, etc., organized by the Duchess of Abercorn, who is working energetically to secure the success of the undertaking, and will be glad of assistance from any ladies who are willing to help her in her praiseworthy efforts.

Remarking on "unhealty London," a local paper says that Lord Londesborough, who is more a notriety than a celebrity, has been made an earl, and then goes on to explain: "It was in his house that the Prince of Wales caught typhoid fever sixteen years ago." Well, if that's all, there are plenty of houses even in "Marvellous London" where the Prince and his Royal family could catch all the diseases that flesh is heir to, from leprosy to Asiatic cholera.

Winter seems to be coming on with rapid strides. It has, in fact, come already. Snow has fallen a month earlier than usual, and the weather wise are prophesying that bad as was the winter last year, this will be even more severe. It may be noticed that great coats and cloaks are being worn in Nottingman almost as much now as they usually are in the depth of winter.

A really representative American Club has at last been established in London in the handsome premises, 43 and 44 Albemarle street. This club—which, by the way, is to be the temporary premises also of the Junior Travelers' Club—has commenced this week with a highly distinguished membership, and there is no doubt that it will soon become the most popular and most fashionable American resort in London.

The life of the late Dr. Morley Punshon has been published this week. Wesleyans, as a rule, are not politicians, and Mr. Punshon was no exception to the general rule; yet as a boy his dream was to be a member of parliament, and he appears to have met Mr. Gladstone at a party at Newman Hall's when the talk was chiefly of disestablishment. Only once in all the letters reprinted do we come across a political entry. That was with reference to the elections of 1880, which he describes as "a decisive majority for the Liberals all along the line."

A "Rector" writes to a Manchester paper to show that there are ways of spending money by which it may be made to benefit fifty in place of one. He supposes that two wealthy men wish to spend £10,000 in such a way as will most benefit their fellow men. One decides on building a magnificent mansion, and of thus providing labor for a large number of workmen. The other decides on sending to Canada forty deserving families and settling them comfortably on their own farms. The writer then asks whether there can be any comparison between the benefits which would result on the outlay in these two cases. In the former they would not extend beyond the pay for the labor of the hands employed; in the latter the money would be returned from the produce of the lands cultivated "some thirty, some sixty, and some a hundred fold," to the benefit of thousands to the end of time, to say nothing of the benefit to the giver in the way of the self-denial involved. The inference is that emigration as a policy for meeting the wants of the unemployed is to be strongly commended, and with this no doubt large numbers of people will be quite prepared to agree.

The railway which is being driven into Swedish Lapland, across the borders of the Arctic Circle, will open up a novel, if not altogether "salubrious," region to the continental tourists. "Seal-shooting in the Arctic circle" will soon be a popular way of spending a summer holiday. A man will cool himself during the summer in order that his wife may be warm during the winter. If they are as wise as they look, the seals will move up farther north.

The project of holding an Italian exhibition in London next year is daily gaining ground, and many distinguished and influential Italians, both in England and Italy, have entered heartily into the scheme. It will be held on the site of the present American exhibition, the buildings of which will be retained for the purpose.

A novel and interesting entertainment is contemplated for the Wild West arena, by way of a display of ancient and modern Italian sports, and it is more than possible than on the ground now occupied by the Indian Village will be erected an old Italian street, representing various styles of Italian architecture.

That Mr. Winans pays £12,000 a year for the rent of his deer forests in the Highlands is well known, but, says the Figaro, it is not perhaps so generally understood that on an average every stag stalked and shot north of the Tweed costs its proprietor some £60 or £70.

Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an excellent index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Scrofula, which produced a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for a number of years. By the advice of a physician I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time I was completely

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever. — Mrs. William Gage, Concord, N. H.

For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers. — C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until within a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have used for these complaints, with beneficial results, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier. — Mrs. C. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. Three ulcers formed on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose, I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

By Taking

three bottles of this medicine I have been entirely cured. My sight has been restored, and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eye. — Kendal T. Bowen, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she never saw light of any kind. Physicians of the highest standing exerted their skill, but with no permanent success. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which my daughter commenced taking. Before she had used the third bottle her sight was restored. Her cure is complete. — W. E. Sutherland, Evangelist, Shelby City, Ky.

HOME CONVENIENCES.

JEFFERSON'S CONTRIVANCES FOR COMFORT AND ADORNMENT.

Bits of Household Furnishing at Monticello—A Double Bed Chamber—Writing Chair and Table—Odd Little Closets—The Work Bench.

I think it is not generally known with what pleasure and zeal Jefferson brought his mind to bear, not only upon the development of his somewhat grand ideas in regard to a home, but upon the most minute and peculiar contrivances for convenience and adornment. He drew plans and made estimates for nearly everything that was built or constructed on his place. He calculated the number of bricks to be used in every part of his buildings; and his family now possess elaborately drawn plans of such bits of household furnishing as "curtain valences" and the like. Many of his ideas in regard to building and furnishing he brought with him from France; but more of them had their origin in his brain. There were no bedsteads in his house, but in every chamber there was an alcove in the wall in which a wooden framework was built which supported the bed.

His own sleeping arrangements during the lifetime of his wife were of a very peculiar nature; in the partition between two chambers was an archway, and in this archway was the double bed; one chamber was Mr. Jefferson's room and the other was his wife's dressing room. When he arose in the morning he got out of bed into his own room, and Mrs. Jefferson got out into her room. After his wife's death her room became his study, and the partition wall between it and the library being taken down, the whole was thrown into the present large apartment. Over the archway in which the bed is placed is a long closet reached by a step ladder placed in another closet at the foot of the bed. In this were stored in summer the winter clothes of the family, and in winter their summer habiliments. At the other side of the arch there is a small door, so that persons going from one room to the other had no need to clamber over the bed.

A PECULIAR WRITING CHAIR.

In the smaller chamber, when it became his study, stood Mr. Jefferson's writing chair, which was made to suit his peculiar needs; the chair itself was high backed, well rounded and cushioned, and in front of it extended a cushioned platform, on which Mr. Jefferson found it very pleasant to stretch his legs, being sometimes troubled with swellings of the smaller veins of these limbs. The writing table was so made that it could be drawn up over this platform, legs and all, and pushed down when it was not in use. The top of this table turned on a pivot; on one side of it were his writing materials, and on the other side was the little apparatus by which he made copies of all his letters. By his side was another revolving table, on which his books of reference lay or were held open at proper angles. Near him also stood a pair of large globes, and, if he wished to study anything outside of this world, he had in the room two long telescopes mounted on brass tripods. Convenient, also, were his violins, one a Cremona and the other the bass viol saved from the Shadwell fire. Besides the book shelves and the somewhat simple furniture of the library there were a number of oddly contrived little closets, in which were stored his multitudinous manuscripts.

There is a writing table now in the possession of the family, which was frequently used by Mr. Jefferson, and which is very ingeniously contrived. Two of its four legs are hollow, and in these run rods resting upon springs by which the table can be easily elevated, the other two legs being also extensible, but in a different way. When Mr. Jefferson was tired of writing in a sitting position he could stand up and raise this table to the desired height. When he wished to use it as a reading stand the top could be inclined at any angle, and a strip of brass was brought into use to keep the books and papers from sliding off.

Opening from the library was a large room inclosed with glass, which was intended for a conservatory, but was used by Mr. Jefferson as his work room. There he had a work bench, with all sorts of carpenter's tools, with which he constructed a great many of the small conveniences he invented.—Frank R. Stockton in The Century.

Politeness of the Japanese.

The petty tradesman whose shop you enter carries on the process for about two minutes before he can be induced to begin business; the rickshaw coolie to whom you pay a mere trifle for a toilsome drive, stands at the railway station, dripping from heat, mopping and bowing, until, if you be a new comer, you rush away in convulsions of laughter.

On leaving the hotel, I distributed backsheesh through the landlord to the various employes. One after another they came trooping up, smiling, and flopping down on the floor, thumping their heads repeatedly against the ground, mumbling their gratitude; while as for beggars—who, by the way, are not numerous—they sprawl on the earth, and in an extremity of self abasement literally rub their heads in the dirt.

Again, on arriving at a tea house, the landlady first brings in tea, which she delivers crouching on the floor, and then the entire family come in in succession, and kneeling at your feet, go through the process of bumping their foreheads.

Nor is the bowing restricted to inferiors or to the lower classes. Many a time have I watched the ceremonial of two friends, from among the upper orders, parting in the street. Backward and forward they sway their bodies at right angles, as if they worked on pivots, until one wonders when they will cease. Over at last, I think. Not a bit of it. They separate for a few paces, and then, as if a sudden omission had struck them, they rush back, and go through the whole ridiculous business again.—Japan Letter.

A Badly Scared Fireman.

There is no royal road to security against the occurrence of low water. The best safeguards are a set of good gauge cocks on the boiler and a competent man in charge. A battery of boilers was fitted with a low water detector, one of the kind which sets off a ten horse whistle when the water approaches the lower limit. The fireman was told that "the whistle would blow when the water got too low in the boilers." All went well, and the fireman had nearly forgotten about the alarm, when one day he let the water get low. Off went the whistle, and so did the fireman. Thinking the alarm meant that the boilers were on the point of explosion, he took to his heels and made good time until he was at least half a mile from the boiler house. Had not some one who understood the operation of the alarm made an investigation and started the feed pump, serious damage to the boilers would have resulted.—The Locomotive.

Edwin Forrest Gambled but Once.

"During my first visit to the Crescent City I was wandering one night along Camp street; when on the corner of Canal I was attracted by the noise of a roulette wheel in a gambling house. I had but a single dollar in my pocket, yet I went in to try my luck. In a few hours I had won $1,000—a fortune to me at that time of life. With my lucre I went home to bed, but there was no rest for me that night. Whether by the change of my pecuniary condition or the fascination of the gambling table I do not know, but I arose and returned to the gambling house. In a short time I was cleaned out, and this was my first and last gambling experience. I have never put down a dollar since."—Dr. Kane in Baltimore American.

Marshall P. Wilder tells of a small boy walking down a country lane with a basket of green apples on his arm, singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

THE POTENT STEAM WHISTLE.

Stanley and Other Explorers Scaring the Natives Out of Their Wits.

When the traveler takes a steamboat for the first time up an unexplored river he usually finds that the whistle is as potent as a howitzer would be in keeping unfriendly natives at a respectful distance. The cable informed us the other day that when Stanley reached the big town of Yambunga, on the Aruwimi river, the village was depopulated in a twinkling by a blast from one of his steamboat whistles. When they found that nothing had hurt them, however, they came back. The scare they got may have accounted for the friendly reception they gave Stanley. When he visited this town several years ago the people would not sell him a particle of food. They had an abundance, as he was able to ascertain, though they pleaded that they were in a starving condition. This time, however, they sold him plenty of eatables, and did what they could to speed him on his way.

Nothing impresses a savage more than a big noise, and nothing inspires him with greater terror than a noise he does not understand. Baron von Schwerin says that firearms are chiefly useful to the Congo natives for the noise they can make with them. He thinks the native with a gun in his hand is not half so much to be feared as when he is armed with his lance. Flintlock muskets and gunpowder are two leading articles of import into the Congo region, but as yet the natives use them merely to contribute a regular Fourth of July racket to all festive occasions. Whole kegs of gunpowder are sometimes burned to celebrate a victory in war or the advent of a new chief. Sometimes the wretched guns burst, to the great personal injury of the men who handle them, but these tragic incidents do not shake the native faith in the white man's shooting iron as, on the whole, a very innocent and most enjoyable plaything.

But these puffing steamboats that are evidently things of life are great sources of terror on first acquaintance, and when the strange swimming monsters emit an unearthly shriek everybody within hearing feels that it is high time to take to the woods. Grenfell, Wolf and other Congo explorers triumphantly proved the efficacy of the steam whistle on occasions when the natives were determined to be hostile at short range; and when Capt. Everill ascended the Fly river in New Guinea, two years ago, meeting many unfriendly tribes, a blast from his steam whistle was usually enough to cause a let up in the showers of arrows that everywhere greeted him.—New York Sun.

A Tired Out Old Emperor.

The Emperor Dom Pedro reached Paris a little after midnight, and was welcomed at the Gare d'Orleans by a hundred or more of his subjects. "A timeworn, aging emperor he looks," says a correspondent, "as he stands on the step of the carriage for a moment, while an attache of the legation carefully ties a white scarf round his throat. Dom Pedro has slept on the way. His eyes are tired and shun the light. His legs seem to bend under him, and his pallid cheeks bear traces of long illness and anxiety. He is dressed with great simplicity. A long black overcoat, dark trousers, much the worse for the journey, and a black felt traveling hat, rather crumpled. It costs his majesty quite an effort to reach the platform, but he lands at last, and stands for a minute looking dazed and fretful as his subjects crowd deferentially around him and kiss his hand. Gen. Brugere moves forward and bids the emperor welcome in the name of the president. 'I trust your majesty has had a pleasant journey.' Yes, his majesty has had a pleasant journey.

"So he says, removing his hat as he answers. I notice now how bald his head has grown, and how snowy white his beard has turned since we last saw him in Paris. Where is the empress all this time? Dom Pedro has clean forgotten her. Ah! there she is struggling painfully to join her spouse. The dearest, kindest, quaintest, smallest empress. A mild, unpretending, patient little old lady, scarcely four feet high, with snowy tresses smoothed simply back beneath a brown straw bonnet. Her dress is altogether quaint and delightful. A striped gray and white gown with a loosely pleated skirt and a plain back cape. Antiquated is not the word for it. 'It's very difficult to get off these steps,' says the empress, apologetically, as a secretary of legation gallantly offers her his arm and helps her down. Next minute her majesty is embracing a lady on the platform. She is almost kissed to pieces before she reaches the waiting room, where she struggles helplessly to the door in Dom Pedro's wake. Dom Pedro, dazed and absent as ever. Thinking of bed, perhaps, which he needs sadly. In the courtyard the empress gets into a landau while the emperor jerkily takes leave of his subjects. 'A quarter past 1 already!' says Pedro, glancing at his watch, as he disappears in the carriage."—New York Tribune.

Ear Marks of the Athletes.

"Did you ever notice," said a professional athlete, "the peculiarities of some champion athletes? Hanlan, in rowing, has a stoop entirely at variance with the position which he tells his hearers is correct. This stoop must be fatal to his progress in a great race, for he loses the force of each stroke long before he assumes an upright position. Another peculiarity of Hanlan is that he rarely turns his head in a race. He marks out a course before the word 'go' is given, and after that he steers by dead reckoning, judging his motion and position by some tree or house which he passes. Did you ever see him wipe the perspiration from his forehead and hair with his three first fingers after a close contest? Well, that is another of his ideas. Instead of using a handkerchief or towel he uses his fingers.

"Of course you have observed Eddy Lange, the amateur champion, walking. When he gets under way to cut down a large field his face is very unpleasant to look at. As he swings around the track one can see that his upper teeth are tightly pressing his lower lip, that there is a twitch in the fingers of his left hand and that he holds his head to the right side, while his face appears to be that of a person in intense agony. He is not, however, and when he passes a field of men to whom he has given all the way from ten yards to a minute's start, you will notice his visage in one broad smile. Lon Myers bends far down while running and frequently allows his left hand to foul his left leg. John Teemer squints when he is doing good work. John L. Sullivan lifts his right foot high from the ground and bends the leg at the knee every time he sends in his left fist."—New York Mail and Express.

A Small Bore Rifle.

It will seem surprising that the special committee appointed in England to decide upon a new rifle for the British army should have decided to fix the diameter of the bore at thirty-one hundredths of an inch, or .31, as it is technically known. That makes the bore about the size of an ordinary pencil.

The experiments are said to have shown that such a rifle is remarkably efficient in range and destructiveness. With a large charge of compressed powder, up to 500 yards, the soldier "need not raise the back sight."

This bore is intended for the magazine gun, which is to be made after the Lee pattern. For a single shot rifle it is said that the bore will be about .40, though the information upon that point is not so definite.—New York Evening Sun.

Gold in Ancient Cemeteries.

The gold which is now being dug out of the ancient cemeteries (huacas) at Hilandia, Central America, and other places near Pereira, has led more than 1,000 workmen to that spot, and a town has sprung up there within the last four years which now contains more than 50,000 inhabitants. Public attention is being turned to those regions, as the ancient burial places and deposits of the wealthy Cacique Caracol have not yet been discovered, and it is believed that his treasures were immensely more valuable than any which have yet been unearthed.—Chicago News.

Mr. Bigger will call personally upon as many of our citizens as possible. Samples of the pictures may be seen in the window of Messrs. J. B. Ferguson & Co., Government street. *

FROM CARIBOO.

Result of the Season's Operations—Interesting Account.

Rich Specimens of Quartz Brought to this City.

Mr. Neil Campbell, who returned from Barkerville last Friday morning, where he has been since last May, brought down some fine specimens of quartz with him, as well as crushed quartz. The largest and best specimen is from the head of Chisholm Creek, the Seroy location, known as the Moffat Company. The sample weighs 10 lbs., and is honey combed and litterally studded with gold visible to the naked eye. The out croppings of this quartz was but 7 inches, but as the shaft was sunk at a depth of 20 feet the width gauged from 22 to 24 inches becoming richer in color as the shaft went deeper. The same parties also own another ledge in the same vicinity known as the Oregon, composed chiefly of pyrites, which also assays very highly.

The next sample shown by Mr. Campbell is from C. D. Rand's location on Conklin Gulch. This sample is from a pound of rock crushed in a mortar showing a very fine sample of free gold, the quartz of which will assay as high as $1,000 to the ton.

From the Imperial Company, on William's Creek, in which Mr. Campbell, Messrs. A. J. Smith, Victoria, Thos. Moffatt, N. Brothwick and others are interested, Mr. Campbell has shown us samples impregnated with free gold visible to the naked eye. The ledge was exposed at the depth of 25 feet showing a breadth of three feet, in which was observed a great deal of oxidized rock, at every crushing of the mortar showed a very fine sample of free gold. This location is situated on the Stedman lode.

The Island Mountain was in full blast when Mr. Campbell left. Carpenters were finishing the erection of the crushing and stamping machinery. The company were arranging for putting on a night and a day shift, preparatory to crushing early in spring, so soon as the frosty weather is over. They have a large quantity of fine looking milling ore on the dumps at present. There is no doubt this quartz mill will turn out good results.

The B. C. Milling and Mining Company were still at work and expected to continue so all winter, sinking to a lower depth in their main tunnel, at the head of Stout's Gulch on their Cariboo location. The prospects for this company, if judiciously handled, are considered to be good. Mr. Craib is still Superintendent and continues in his faith as to the ultimate results.

The Black Jack Company, located on Williams' Creek, within sight of Barkerville, are erecting a small mill on the site as they progress in sinking. This company have very rich prospects in the ledge. Mr. Martin, the government assayer, is favorably impressed with this location, and the country in general.

Messrs. Mason, Boyce and Taylor are arranging for the erection of a 4-stamp mill on their location adjoining the Rand Co.'s location on Conklin Gulch. They have rich prospects in their lode.

On Lowhee Creek, John Pinkerton's ledges have prospected well. He also is considering the scheme of erecting a mill at an early date to test his lode.

The ledge owned by Officer Lindsay and Alex. Jack, of Victoria, in the Richfield Mountain, which was opened by Mr. Jack this fall before he left for the capital, shows a well-defined ledge of about 20 feet wide. The ore is supposed to be free milling.

On Hixon Creek, operations are directed for the old Washburn works of early date, where prospects were obtained in Cariboo's palmy days. The company are sanguine of striking it rich in a short time.

Many other locations have been prospected and rich specimens secured. The number of records for the season will amount to about 100. Rand Bros. have two very favorable locations showing large bodies of ore in sight at the head of Williams' Creek. On the Princess Maria lode over twenty sections have been recorded this season. A great many other records have been made in different sections of the district.

THE PLACER DIGGINGS.

On Conklin Gulch the Dutch boys have struck rich pay on the side hill, some distance from the creek, taking out 6 ounces to the set of timbers. Also the Cora company on the same gulch have struck good pay. On the day prior to Mr. Campbell's departure a nugget worth $100 was taken out. It was highly impregnated with quartz. It is supposed these discoveries will lead to something better shortly.

Mosquito Creek—The Flynn Bros. have taken out between $4,000 or $5,000 for the season. They have still a very large area of ground to work and would have done much better were it not for the drought. The Alabama claim, at the mouth of the same creek, has about paid expenses.

Williams Creek—The Forest Rose Co., at the mouth of this creek, have their claim opened in fine form for successful operation. The work of opening this mine was a tedious one, but under the able management of Mr. James Innes and his partner, Mr. Smith, they have it now in such a shape that for many years to come they expect to reap a rich reward for their wonderful perseverance. This has been their best season so far.

On the same creek the other hydraulic claims did not turn out much on account of the scarcity of water.

Walters' Gulch—On this creek the Wintrop Company have opened up at the mouth of this gulch with very fair prospect for next season. This creek is in the village of Richfield adjoining the Court House. James McCann owns the next or adjoining claim, which bids fair to be a lucrative one.

Lightning Creek—Jones & Montgomery, near Stanley, have struck rich prospects in the deep ground and expects a rich harvest. The old Van Winkle is worked by Chinamen, who are reported to have struck very rich pay at the present time. The Big Bonanza, owned by Messrs. John Boyd and Angus McPhail, from Bruce County, Ont., and others, situated within four miles of the mouth of Lightning Creek, are erecting pumping machinery under the able management of the experienced Mr. John Nott. This company have expended in the neighborhood of $50,000 in opening out their claim. They believe the "pile" of every member of the company by the barrelful is there.

Goat River—The new territory prospected last year has so far proved an entire failure. The last of the prospectors returned the week before Mr. Campbell left, not having discovered anything on Goat River. Mr. Frank Pendron & Co. ascended the Smoky River, which empties into the Fraser, about 40 miles, where they came to very high falls, which they could not ascend. They found prospects of find gold which will pay $4 to $5 per day per hand. They intend returning to Smoky River in the spring and cross above the falls, where they think gold will be found in paying quantities in the small streams.

Snow Shoe Creek—Smithe and Anderson have done well this year on this creek. Having opened their hydraulic frame in a minerlike manner, their claim is easily operated, and will prove to be a source of remuneration for many years to come.

Keithley Creek—Some of the claims on this creek are doing well. Amongst the number, being the Onward claim, owned by Veith and Sorland.

Harvey Creek—The Cosmopolitan claim is taking out fair pay at the present time.

AN UNDEVELOPED COUNTRY.

Between the head of Williams Creek and the Forks of Quesnelle there is, according to Mr. Campbell's opinion, a large area of undeveloped country. Rich pay having been taken out on every side thereof there is no doubt but that rich deposits lay in this section which extends to about 40 miles. The reason why it is avoided by prospectors is that the work is heavy and deep sinking.

As to the future outlook, Mr. Campbell is sanguine that the district of Cariboo will again come to the front as the great gold-bearing field of the Province, if not of the coast. The only drawback being the lack of capital, the cost of transportation and its remoteness from the base for laying in supplies. The season was the dryest the country had yet known. Prospecting had been greatly retarded on account of the drouth. The feeling with the oldest miners is that the territory within 50 miles of Barkerville is the richest in gold-bearing quartz and placer diggings that has yet been discovered in the Province, and that a great future is in store for Cariboo and its persevering pioneers and energetic citizens.

EARTH TO EARTH.

Funeral To-day of the Late Mr. John T. Galbraith.

All that was mortal of the late John T. Galbraith, who died in his room in the Driard Hotel, so suddenly on Monday night, were consigned to their last resting place in Ross Bay cemetery to-day. The remains were removed to the Masonic Temple by Mr. Chas. Hayward to-day where they lay in the lodge-room in order that the many friends of the deceased might have an opportunity of taking a last glance at the countenance of one who was a favorite with all. The casket was a beautifully polished walnut one, with heavy silver mountings. The lid of the casket was covered with floral offerings from friends. The remains were neatly dressed; the countenance calm and placid and as natural as when he was seen in the streets last Saturday. A slight bruise or cut in the forehead above the nose was the only change noticable. The deceased was member of the mystic tie—an order he loved dearly. The funeral was conducted by the brethren of that order in this city. The beautiful services of the order were conducted by the M. W. the Grand Master, Bro. A. R. Milne, in the Temple, and afterwards at the grave, assisted by his officers, the Master of Victoria-Columbia Lodge, his officers, and the members of the order assembled on this occasion.

After leaving the Masonic Temple the cortege moved slowly to Christ's Church Cathedral, of which church deceased was a member. Here the beautiful service of the Episcopal Church was gone through with, after which the procession reformed and wended its way to the cemetery, where the last acts of kindness were shown the remains. And there they rest. The pall bearers were, Judge Vowell, Bros. E. C. Nuefelder, Wm. Manson, A. McKeown, M. W. Waitt and J. Johnston, all intimate friends of the deceased.

The Right Place.

THE RIGHT PLACE for Gum Boots, Rubbers, and all kinds of Overshoes, is at Erskine's Boot & Shoe Emporium, corner Government & Johnson Sts. *

Fire at Ashcroft.

ASHCROFT, Nov. 9.—Cargile's hotel, with the contents, was entirely consumed by fire to-day. Fire broke out about 11:15 a. m. Loss between five and six thousand dollars. No insurance.

Enterprising.

Messrs. Angus & Gordon, the enterprising grocers of this city, have arranged to ship several tons of butter and cheese by the steamship Parthia to Yokohama. This is enterprise, and marks a new era in the shipping trade of this city.

Rear Admiral Heneage.

Rear Admiral Algernon F. Heneage, who is now on his way to this city to take command of the Pacific squadron, hoisting his flag from the Triumph, is accompanied by Lieut. T. A. Thynne, his flag-lieutenant, Mr. G. G. Parches, his secretary, and Mr. Banks, secretary's clerk.

An Important Day.

The officials in the post office appear to be the only ones in the city who are aware of to-day being the 46th anniversary of the birthday of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales. It and the City Hall are the only public buildings in the city from which floats the flag which has braved the battle and the breeze for a thousand years. What has become of our boasted loyalty?

Fire.

At 4:40 yesterday afternoon fire was discovered in a large stable owned by Mr. J. H. Nicholson, on the corner of John and Government streets. The firemen responded promptly to the alarm and a stream from the Deluge hose was playing on the building in a few minutes. Mr. Adam Innis rented the stable some time ago and had recently placed six tons of hay in the loft, which blazed fiercely for some time. Messrs. Offerhaus, Humber, Bailey and S. Gray, Jr., removed the harness and other goods from the building. The firemen worked hard for nearly three hours, but the baled hay burned until late in the night. Boys playing with matches is supposed to have caused the fire. The stable was insured, but Mr. Innes had no insurance on his property, which consisted of a large quantity of hay and grain. The blue jackets assisted as usual in saving adjoining property.

Mr. George Sherwood was married at the Angel Hotel this forenoon, by Rev. D. Fraser, to Miss Sarah Olivia Sullivan, who arrived last night from Barrie, Ont.

Took a Tumble.

Two teams of horses belonging to Messrs. Pickard and McMillan, Denman Island, fell over an embankment near the wharf, going down about 25 feet. They were badly cut and shaken up, but not killed.

Where's Your Flag, Mr. Colonist?

The super-loyal Colonist forgot this morning to unfurl its Union Jack from the flag-staff which ornaments our contemporary's building. It treats its readers to a dessertation on the birthday of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, but fails to put into force the example it teaches by precept. The loyalty of our contemporary never has been like unto Caesar's wife—above suspicion, and his failing to float his flag to-day does not surprise many.

What Am I To Do.

The symptoms of Biliousness are unhappily too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and Diarrhoea or Constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy. *

LONDON HOSPITAL NURSES.

Lady Probationers Among the Sick—A Trying Sort of Work.

The modern nurse is usually a well educated and refined woman, who has undergone a long period of scientific training. She is well read in pharmacy and therapeutics, keeps a skeleton in her cupboard, and takes in The Lancet. The fault to which she is most prone is to regard her patients as "cases" and to forget the essentially womanly part of her calling.

Most of our large hospitals now take lady probationers for a term not less than three months on payment of a guinea per week. In this way a practical knowledge of the work demanded of a nurse can be obtained, and a woman can ascertain whether she is capable of undertaking it professionally. Much of the work is obviously unsuited to young girls, who should not be permitted to attempt it, and the more mature character is necessary to stand the strain on mind and body. Those who from evanescent sentiment or from impatience of home control seek the hospital soon have a rude awakening; the long hours and menial tasks rapidly dispel all romantic illusions, and only a woman who is actuated by the highest motives can hope to successfully achieve the labors demanded of her. Lady probationers are commonly believed to flirt with the student, to faint at operations and to do no work, but as a fact they never get an opportunity of behaving like this, and are usually liked for their extreme sympathy and kindness to all and their general trustworthiness. The lady probationer is naturally shy in her new position, and is far more likely to give annoyance from her frightened reserve than from an inclination to flirt, and also more apt to overwork herself in her fresh enthusiasm than to become idle and lazy.

Constant training of probationers is trying, though, and we have some sympathy with Sister Dora, who preferred doing all the work herself to being bothered to show others how to do it. Scrubbing the floors used to be demanded of all nurses not many years ago, but now nursing is more distinctly acknowledged as an art, women are speedily engaged to do much of this more physical labor. One of these great rough women now engaged as a scrubber was, during the year 1866, a special nurse for cholera patients. Her off hand way of talking of the epidemic and its fatal effects increases our good opinion of educated nurses. Out of fifty patients that passed through her hands nearly a half died, and no doubt it was "summat like nursin'," as the woman declares.—All the Year Round.

—Recently in London there was an extraordinary shaving match against time decided, Teddy Wick, the champion barber, being backed to shave 50 persons in 60 minutes for £15 a side. He actually shaved 77 in 59 minutes and 53 seconds, and thus won the stakes. In the first quarter of an hour he disposed of 21 men, in the second 14, in the third 19, and in the last 14 minutes and 53 seconds he put on a "spurt" and finished off 23.
